Fiercest Hand to Hand Conflicts of Recent Years Fought by Serbs and Bulgars

FAIRLY ANNIHILATE EACH OTHER

Bulgaria Loses 20,000 in Killed and Wounded and Servia 15,000

LONDON, July 7.—Reports of the progress of the Balkan conflict reaching here today continued to be hopelessly contradictory as to whether Serbia was successful over the Bulgarians, or the forces of King Peter were being driven back.

It was the general belief, however, that the Bulgarians were gradually forcing both the Serbians and Greeks back, but not without the most bitter fighting. The battles have been marked by hand to hand conflict in which bayonets were used as sabres and at such close quarters that the troops resorted to clubbing each other with the butts of their rifles.

Over 5,000 Square Miles It is estimated that the fighting covers an area of 5,000 square miles.
More than 100,000 non-combatants are homeless. They have fled from their homes and are in danger of starving. Scores of villages have been burned.

Worse than the War
VIENNA, July 7.—The Bulgarian and Serbian troops are fairly annihilating each other in the conflict now raging. The battles are marked by more bitter and costly fighting than prevailed during the war between the Balkan allies and the Turks.

All semi-official advices declare that last week's battles were the longest and hardest fought of all the battles during the Balkan war. These reports stated that the Bulgarians lost 20,000 in killed and wounded and the Serbians 15,000. The Serbians were victorious at Katchana, according to latest reports and entered the city.

Kaiser Offers to Mediate BERLIN, July 7.—Emperor William is prepared to act as mediator in the Balkan trouble in so far as it concerns Bulgaria and Roumania, according to a report today. With advices from Constantinople intimating that the Roumanian ministry had officially notified the ports of the mobilization of the Roumanian army, it was reported today that the kaiser had suggested a plan of mediation.

BOOTLEGGER TAKEN.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 7.—Oliver Harding, shot in the leg in the "bootlegging" raid that cost two lives yesterday, surrendered to the police today after spending the night in a barn. His mother, in whose house the double killing occurred, is also under arrest.

Acting upon information furnished by special detectives, Chief of Police Keller and Policeman Thomas Dodsworth attempted to arrest Ray Williams on the charge of selling liquor illegally. Williams retreated into the Harding home and began shooting. He killed Dods-worth and shot Chief Keller twice.
The chief returned the fire and Williams fell over dead.

Weather

Temperature ranges yesterday:
High, 80.
Low, 58.

Precipitation, 0.
Forecast for La Crosse and vicinity: Probably showers tonight or Tuesday; warmer tonight.

Wisconsin: Unsettled weather with showers tonight or Tuesday; warmer east and south portions tonight and north and east portions Tuesday; Moderate winds increasing Tuesday; Minnesota: Increasing cloudiness with showers tonight or Tuesday; warmer south and west portions tonight; cooler west portion Tuesday; increasing winds.

Iowa: Unsettled weather with
east portion tonight; moderate to brisk winds.

Weather Conditions
The pressure is highest over the central states and the weather is fair east of the Mississippi river, with lower temperature in the middle and north Atlantic states. A moderate storm, central in the Canadian northwest, extends southward into the northern plains states and the temperature has risen in Montana and the Dakotas. Rain has fallen during the past 24 hours in the south Atlantic states and it is raining this morning at Kansas City; elsewhere the weather has been generally fair.

Showers are probable in this section tonight or Tuesday with higher temperature tonight and moderately high temperature over Tuesday.

The river will probably become stationary within the next 48 hours.

DYNAMITE RAISES BODIES OF TWO

William Zenker and Miss Elizabeth Haebich Recovered from the River

SEARCH FOR THE THIRD VICTIM

Morning Star Sights Young Woman Floating Short Distance Above
Brownsville

The body of William Zenker and that of Miss Elizabeth Haebich, who were drowned at the upper end of Barron's Island the evening of the Fourth of July when they were drawn under a government barge, have been recovered while that of Miss Myrtle Eilers is being diligently sought by a large number of row-boats and launches between here and Brownsville. Up to two o'clock this afternoon no trace of the third body had been found.

Zenker was sighted a short distance below the Mississippi river wagon bridge last evening at about seven o'clock and Miss Haebich was picked up about two miles above Brownsville at six o'clock this morning by William Eilers, father of the girl whose body has not yet been recovered. After a search of the river with grappling hooks and by Henry Hoffman, a professional diver, from the time the boat load of young people were sucked under the barge until noon yesterday it was decided to dynamite the river in the hope of raising the bodies. Chief of Police John Webber secured the right to dynamite the river and more than fifty shots were fired in the current between the wagon bridge and the place where the barges were moored.

Body Passes Bridge
A close watch was kept on the river by hundreds of bystanders while the dynamite was being used and at seven o'clock Norris Bachelor, who is camping in a boat house below the bridge, saw what he believed to be a body floating in the channel west of the sheerboom of the bridge. His wife brought a pair of field glasses and it was discovered that the object in the river was the body of a man.

Louis Larson of Waterloo, Iowa, who is camping with relatives a short distance below the Bachelor houseboat, was signalled by Mr. Bachelor and rowed out in a skiff and towed the body to shore. It was taken at once to Fessler and Dahl's undertaking parlors.

The Morning Star, a river packet, on its way up river sighted the body of a woman floating about two miles above Brownsville at six o'clock this morning. William Funke of this city was a passenger on the boat and knowing of the drowning at LaCrosse he kept a close lookout for launches searching for the body. In a short time the steamer passed a launch carrying Mr. Eilers, who was searching for the body of his daughter. He was notified and ran to the spot where the body had been seen. It was identified as that of Miss Haebich.

Hundreds Join in Search The search for the bodies was organized by the Wesleyan 'Glee club and German Methodist church and at their request W. V. Kidder enrolled about twenty launches of the La Crosse Motor Boat club and a careful patrol of the river from here to Brownsville is being maintained.

Because of the reward and the widespread publicity of the drowning and the search for the bodies it is believed that the third body will be recovered as soon as it comes to the surface. Hundreds of men are engaged in the search.

The two that have been recovered will be held for a day or two in the hopes that the other will be found.
If it is located by today or tomorrow a triple funeral will be held in the First German Methodist church of which the three victims were members.

SPILL DISCOURAGES AIRMAN.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, July 7.— Arthur Hartman, an amateur aviator, announces today that he is through with the flying game after a narrow escape from drowning yesterday in the Mississippi river.
He attempted to make a flight in a home-made hydro-aeroplane. When fifty feet from the shore the machine took a dive for the bottom.
Hartman disentangled himself from the wreckage and swam until rescued.

TEAR UP ENCAMPMENT.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 7.— With the departure for home of the last of the 64,000 civil war veterans —minus the nine who died at the encampment—a force of 500 men went to work on the famous battlefield today "striking" the tents and removing all evidences of the great reunion.

ALL TO RECOVER

NEW YORK, July 7.—It was announced at the North Hudson hospital today that the thirty-two persons injured in a roller coaster accident at Palisades park Sunday were recovering. Two persons died a short time after the collision between two cars.

MILITANTS PLOT TO BURN LONDON?

Alleged Scotland Yard Has Bared Conspiracy to Start Huge Conflagration

TO DROP BOMBS FROM PLANES

French Aviators Approached Said to Have Revealed the Plot to the Police

LONDON, July 7.—Following the statement of the Daily Mail that militancy had been "killed in England by the cat and mouse law," a sensation was sprung today by the publication in the Evening Standard of a story declaring that Scotland Yard had discovered a plot to burn London.

According to the alleged plans for the firing of the city, phosphorus bombs were to be dropped from aeroplanes on the principal buildings.
According to the story, it was planned to have French aviators fly across the channel with the bombs which would be furnished them from London. The plot had advanced to the point of approaching certain aviators, it is declared. The aviators refused to become involved and reported the affair to Scotland Yard.

According to the reports the women had planted tubes of phosphorus in various sections of the city in preparation for their demonstration by fire, which was planned as the crowning effort of their destructive work.

In reference to the effect of the cat and mouse law, the Daily Mail declared that the militant leaders had lost their followers and practically no funds were being subscribed to the Woman's Social and Political union.

The isolated fires and other attacks are now attributed to individual fanatics.

CHILDREN START FIRE.

Children playing with matches caused a small fire in the home of Hans Hanson, 506 Oakland street, at 9:15 o'clock yesterday morning.
Fire department No. 1 responded to the call and had no difficulty in extinguishing the blaze which was in a bed room. Several articles of furniture were burned and with the smoke and water damage to the extent of about $100 was done.

TO ASK RECEIVERS

ST. LOUIS, July 7.—Two more 'Frisco railroad lines are expected to be placed in the hands of receivers today. They are the Beaumont, Sour Lake & Western and the Orange & Northwestern, links in the 'Frisco's line between New Orleans and Houston. Notice of the intention of applying for receivers for the two companies has been sent to the Texas railroad commission at Austin.

LINES UP PARTY.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Efforts to reach a harmony program to grease the ways in the house for the administration currency reform bill were made today by the democrats of the house banking committee. Chairman Glass called his democratic colleagues together. He proposed to smooth the ruffled feelings of some who have been disposed to "kick over the traces."

FARM BOARD IN ENGLAND

LONDON, July 7.—The 100 members of the American Agricultural commission who have been studying agricultural finance, production and distribution in Europe, arrived here this afternoon from Paris for a brief stop at Great Britain and Ireland before sailing for the United States on July 18.

MYRTLE EILERS
Not yet recovered from the river.

MAKE LAUTERBACH WAIVE IMMUNITY

Criminal Prosecution of Lamar and His Aides Foreshadowed by Probe Action

LAUTERBACH FIERCELY GRILLED

Forced by Senator Reed to Admit He Lied to Ledyard About the Democrats

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Criminal prosecution of those concerned in the impersonation of congressmen in connection with Wall street's lobbying is to be sought if the senate lobby probe committee has its way. This was plainly indicated today when the committee forced Edward Lauterbach, New York lawyer, publicly to waive immunity before it would permit him to continue his story of his relations with David Lamar, the "Wolf of Wall street."

Lauterbach had an unpleasant time on the stand. Under a fierce fire of interrogations by Senator Reed of Missouri, he was forced to admit that he had lied when he told Lewis Cass Ledyard, Morgan lawyer, that he had investigated the sentiment of the democrats in Washington and knew they were opposed to any real investigation of the Steel trust. He also had to admit that he had lied when he told Charles Steele of Morgan & Co. that he could answer "with authority" that President Taft was opposed to the steel inquiry.

Lauterbach was grilled to such an extent that he became much confused and frequently contradicted himself. The committee established that he had been in almost constant communication with David Lamar and the witness admitted that before Lamar testified he had conferred with him.

Saw No Leaders
The witness said he came to Washington to investigate the steel inquiry at the request of H. B. Martin, head of the anti-trust league.

"What democratic leaders did you see?" demanded Reed.

"I saw none of them."

"Did you see a single man who had an official position in Washington?"

WIFE BATTLES TO PROVE INNOCENCE

Husband and Mate Fight Desperate Duel with Stiletto to Settle Accusation

BOTH OF THE PAIR WILL DIE

Police Break In to Find Them Locked in Struggle Stabbing Desperately

DENVER, July 7.—Harking back to the superstitious tests of the dark ages, an Italian, the accuser, fought a stiletto duel with his wife, the accused, that death of the one might vindicate her profession of purity or of the other would confirm his charge of infidelity.

As a result of the bloody encounter both Palacio and his wife are dying in a hospital.

Palacio accused his wife of unfaithfulness and refused to believe her protestations of innocence. To his taunts she pleaded: "Give me a chance. We will fight with stiletto and if you kill me I am guilty. If I kill you, I am innocent."

Palacio cast his coat to his wife, told her to use it as a shield. She barred the doors and the duel began. For twenty minutes, according to the woman, they fought until both were cut a dozen times. When the police battered down the doors, the couple were locked in a death struggle, each armed with a stiletto and each stabbing each other repeatedly. Before she lost consciousness the woman reiterated her declarations of innocence.

FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL.

CHICAGO, July 7.—With a bullet through his heart the body of a well dressed man, who registered as "J. Henry Smith, San Francisco," was found in a room at the Great Northern hotel this afternoon. On the bed the police found two notes, reading as follows:

"Notify Mrs. John L. Sale, 1933 Howard street, San Francisco. To avoid Cathleen, I chose death."
"Wire Secretary Mount Morich, No. 44 F. & A. M., Phelan building, San Francisco."

CUT STEEL RATES

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Iron and steel freight rates from the Mississippi river to Denver were sharply cut in a supplemental report in the Vulcan Iron works case against the Santa Fe railroad, issued by the interstate commerce commission today in which the charge of 63 cents per hundred pounds is "found to be unreasonable to the extent it exceeds 45 cents."

80,000 MAY STRIKE.

NEH YORK, July 7.—Whether nearly 80,000 conductors and train-men employed on fifty-one railroads operating east of Chicago and north of the Ohio river will strike if demands for higher wages, shorter hours and lessened service are not granted, will probably be known late tomorrow, following a meeting here of the conference committee of the managers of the roads involved.

CUPID AIDS THEFT.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 7.— Cupid in the new role of "assistant burglar" is the latest summer sensation here today. Mary Kruger, a housemaid, brought the charge. She said that only through falling in love with James McIntyre, former butler, was she led to betray her mistress, Mrs. Harry L. Haas, and permit McIntyre to enter the house to steal jewels valued at $50,000.
The gems were recovered.

FINAL DRAFT OF THE WATER POWER BILL IS BEFORE LEGISLATURE

LARGE BANK OF PITTSBURG FAILS

First-Second National Is Closed by Order of U. S.
Assistant Controller of Currency

LOANED UPON POOR COLLATERAL

Failure Makes No Impression Upon the Situation in Wall Street

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 7.—The First-Second National Bank of Pittsburg, a recent consolidation of the First and Second National banks, was closed today by order of the assistant controller of currency. The bank is owned largely by the J. S. and W. S. Kuhn interests and is the second largest in Pittsburgh.

A representative of the Kuhn interests also announced that a receiver will be appointed today for the American Water Works company, a $24,000,000 concern which operates in many cities.

The failure of the First-Second National bank ties up deposits aggregating approximately $30,000,000.
The First-Second bank had a capital of $3,400,000; surplus and profits of $1,950,000.

Three or four other banks and trust companies in this vicinity have been associated with the First-Second bank, and there was much speculation as to what the effect would be on the various interests of J. S. and W. S.
Kuhn. The Kuhns have large holdings in water power and water rights in the west and are interested in other industrial enterprises.

With His Wife
W. S. Kuhn, president of the First-Second National bank, is at the bedside of his wife at Prides Crossing, Mass. A boy was born yesterday.

The action of the assistant controller of currency in closing the bank followed an examination of nearly three weeks' duration of the affairs of the bank, by special examiners sent from Washington. They completed their work last week.

Report of the failure caused excitement in financial circles, and among hundreds of foreigners who have small deposits in the bank. Reassuring statements were soon passed about the streets to the effect that when the affairs of the bank were straightened out depositors would be protected.

Kuhn Bank Fails
MCKEESPORT, Pa., July 7.—The First National bank of McKeesport was closed this morning on account of the failure of the First-Second bank at Pittsburgh. This is a Kuhn bank.

Street Not Worried

NEW YORK, July 7.—Wall street was not disturbed today by the news
National bank in Pittsburgh. J. S. and W. S. Kuhn are not connected with the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Discussing the failure of the First-Second National bank of Pittsburgh today, one of the Wall street tick-ers carried the following:

"The failure of the First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh has expected for some time past and is not regarded as important. It is stated that the Union Trust company of Pittsburgh and the Mellon interests will co-operate in an effort to make the failure fall as lightly upon creditors as possible. The First-Second failure was due to loans on collateral that has greatly depreciated in value, including Washash coal, water works and other issues."

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Closing of the First-Second National bank of Pittsburgh was ordered today by the treasury department in order to protect the "little fellows," according to officials this afternoon. It was stated that the Pittsburgh bank had been in a shaky condition for some time. The controller's office also closed the First National bank of Mc-Keesport, which is under the same ownership as the Pittsburgh institution.

RIP—THE HIP—ARRIVES

MILWAUKEE, July 7.—A day late but in the best of spirits, Rip, the Milwaukee hippo, arrived from Hamburg today, breakfasted on three bunches of bananas and paraded before 5,000 school children on the way to his new home in Washington Park.

CUT OIL RATES

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Freight rates on refined petroleum from Vinitia, in the Oklahoma oil fields to Sedalia, Mo., were today ordered by the interstate commerce commission to be reduced from 24 cents to 17 cents per 100 pounds.

BACKED BY BIG EASTERN TRUST

Alleged that Lobby in Wisconsin Is Agent for Vast Combine of Power Interests

(By Progressive Legislation News Bureau.)

MADISON, Wis., July 7.—After several years of wrestling with the water power problem, there is presented to the legislature the best water power bill that the senate committee on conservation can draft.
This bill is worked out of the best thought and experience, not only of Wisconsin, but of the United States.
Its plan is approved by such men as Louis D. Brandeis and government experts and by such national progressive leaders as Bryan, La Follette and Wilson.

Two weeks ago the Progressive Legislative News bureau sent out the following statement: "The water power interests are conducting an uncompromising fight for their own views in waterpower legislation. With the same breath they flay the progressives for delaying waterpower development and refuse to accept the most lenient provision the progressives can conscientiously grant."

For this statement two leading waterpower lobbyists took the director of this bureau to task. These gentlemen insisted that it was a misrepresentation, that the attitude of the waterpower interests during the an-tire session has been one of compromise, that they have made important concessions in an attempt to secure a bill upon which all could unite, and demanded a retraction of the statement by this bureau.

The director at once told these gentlemen that the prime object of this bureau is to give publicity to the truth and the truth only; that he made the statement in question partly upon his own knowledge but mainly upon information which he considered reliable; that he would investigate further, and if he was not satisfied that the bureau had told the truth he would not permit the statement to stand.

The director has since made a thorough investigation of the facts, which he finds to be these:

States the Facts

For a month or more the water power lobbyists stood back and refused to budge an inch. Then, after a conference of the water power attorneys and lobbyists, the water power lobby came to Madison with a proposition that the rights of the state and the rights of the riparian owner in navigable waters be staked off and made definite. This, under the terms of the bill proposed by them, would have been in contractual form and would have given the water power interests in perpetuity such rights as they have been contending and fighting for.

It is germane here that Moses Hooper of Oshkosh was an attorney in the Dunbar case recently decided by the United States supreme court and hence aware of what decision that court might hand down. The Wisconsin decision says that the rights of the state in navigable waters is confined to the control of such part of those waters as shall be necessary for navigation. The United States decision, according to the argument of Mr. Hooper himself for a rehearing in the supreme court, is to the effect that congress or a state legislature may declare all of the water in a navigable stream necessary for navigation, and the United States supreme court holds that it is bound by that declaration.

The waterpower lobby sought, in this: If they were granted 100, they

The Beautiful Oak Grove Mausoleum and Chapel

was dedicated with impressive ceremonies Sunday afternoon, July 6th.

So many inquiries for prices and reservations have come in during the last few days that in order to accommodate all, we have decided to continue the pre-dedication scale of prices until July 31st, after which any space uncontracted will be materially advanced in price.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

GRANDMA

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

It was in one of the modern-improvement, every-convenience night-and-day service New York apartments and grandma—a grandma of the old-fashioned variety—was making her first visit from the West. Grandma's visit made it necessary for Margery, her twenty-year-old granddaughter, to move into the music-room, where, with a music cabinet that could be turned into a dressing table and a lounge that not only served as a bed by night, but as a depository for Margery's belongings all the time and a place behind the piano for Margery's shoes, Margery managed.

There were portieres between the music room and the drawing room, and these could be drawn till Margery rose in the morning and, of course, Margery never went to bed at night until the last companion of her good spirits had gone to bed or left the apartment. But grandma was new to the ways of apartment dwellers, and, although she was much impressed by the size of the check that her son had to make out for the landlord every month, by the liveried bellboys, the day and night elevators and the brass and colored glass entrance which she had to pass to reach her son's apartment, still it didn't seem to her as though really nice folks would sleep on the "parlor sofa." But she was willing to learn.

It was eight-thirty o'clock, one evening and grandma and Margery were alone in the apartment. The maid of all works had gone out and Margery's father and mother had gone to the theater. Margery was expecting a call from Blair Collins at a quarter of nine. It didn't seem to grandma as though really nice folks would make such late calls, but Margery had assured grandma that Blair was one of the old Knickerbocker elite, and this sounded good enough for grandma.

Margery had withdrawn to her music room boudoir. The curtains were closed, and Margery was planning a fifteen minutes' seance with her music cabinet dressing table, when the bell rang. Margery knew by the way it rang that it was Blair. "See here, grandma," said Margery, recklessly pinning up her hair on which she had planned to devote a good ten minutes more. "That is Blair, a suitor of mine." Margaret didn't stop to explain to grandma that any man friend in her language was a "suitor." "He just couldn't keep away," Margery went on. "I got here a quarter of an hour early, worse luck, and I am not half dressed. I am not buttoned up or anything." Margery was fumbling behind the piano in search of the proper pair of slippers and grandma couldn't hear her very distinctly.

"What you have got to do, granny, is to open the door for Blair. Use your head, granny, and you will save my young life, truly. I will love you forever if you do. Just tell him who you are and then lead him gently but firmly into the dining room. Mind you, the dining room; and then come back to me after you have made him feel at home and do my dress up. By that time I will be all ready. I can slip up in here and open the portieres and we can guide him in from the dining room. You can make some excuse about the dining room. Say the lights weren't lighted in the drawing room. Now be sure to come back, because I just can't get this dress fastened alone."

The bell had rung again, and grandma went bustling along in her stiff black ruffles to the door. Her presence of mind did not fail her, but, on seeing the tall, slender young man, she put out her hand and shook his in her firm old grasp. "How do you do, Blair," she said. "Margie didn't say what your other name was, but I guess I can call you by your first name if you are keeping company with Margie. Come right in. I am delighted to know you. I am Margie's grandma. Come right into the dining room."

Grandma led the way through the long, narrow hall. Apartment halls were to her incomprehensible in their intricate jumble of kitchens, bathrooms, bedrooms and pantries, and grandma lost the way to the dining room. "I am real sorry," she admitted, "but would you mind leading the way to the dining room? It has sort of slipped my mind where it is, and Margie said to take you into the dining room. She will be dressed in a minute. She said the electric lights weren't lighted in the parlor."

Grandma and Blair sat down at the dining table, and Blair, his first confusion vanished, edged grandma on. "You don't know how ripping it is to see you, grandma," he said. "Margie has told me all about you."

"Yes, and Margie has told me all about you, too," said grandma with a knowing glance of her bright old eyes. "Well, I do hope you can get her promise before long."

Blair started. It was exactly his own hopes, though as yet he had never revealed that fact even to Margery. "Times have changed a lot since I was a girl, I tell you," grandma went on. "It used to be fairly easy to get a wife. After you had kept company with a girl for a few months and taken her to the circus and the county fair and buggy riding, if you had one, why all you had to do, almost, was ask the girl to name the day. But now, my sakes!" Grandma raised her hands to express her amazement at prevailing conditions. "Why, it must cost a small fortune for a city fellow like you to get a wife, doesn't it? And always other boys waiting to cut you out. Why, I have heard Margie speak of half a dozen other suitors since I have been here, though you are the first one I have actually seen. And, there now, I'll bet a cooky you have gone and spent your money on some of that expensive candy for her." Grandma had spied a large box of bonbons that Blair was trying to conceal under the table.

"Well, I'll never say, but let me tell you something. So far, I can't see I'd have any objections to you at all. Of course, I haven't seen her other suitors that she has mentioned just offhand. But I don't mind telling Margie my ideas about you, and say," she said bending toward Blair and whispering, "of course this isn't for Margie to know, but there is quite a little bank account coming from grandma to Margie on her wedding day if she marries the right one. Don't you tell her. Margie has always been good to me. She deserves it, and I am not going to wait till I am dead to give it to her. The way she turned out of her room and slept on the parlor sofa—Grandma stopped short. "I don't know but perhaps she wouldn't have wanted me to mention that to you, but anyway I did and what is done is done."

Blair for the last ten minutes had heard muffled calls from Margie, calling for "Grandma," so he broke in at the first pause.

"Margie is calling you," he said, smiling, but apparently Margery had grown impatient, for she appeared now at the door of the dining room.

She was very pretty in her dainty evening dress, and a scarf thrown over her shoulders added to the piquancy of the picture.

Grandma's quick eyes had caught sight of the scarf and that reminded her of her neglected duty.

"Margie," she said aloud, "I am awfully sorry I didn't come back to hook you up, but I got listening to Blair talk and I couldn't pull myself away. Now I am sure you don't either of you mind my doing it up right here."

"Blair and I have got real well acquainted," said grandma, and Blair winked over grandma's head at Margery.

They all went into the drawing room and Blair slipped the candy into Margery's hands. Grandma did not sit down. She smiled knowingly at the two young people.

"I guess you won't have any need for grandma now," she said. "What on earth has grandma been telling you?" gasped Margery, sinking into a chair.

"Oh, some secrets," said Blair. His eyes met Margery's and they laughed. "Fact is she called my bluff. Margie, don't let's go on pretending we are just friends. I want to marry you and I didn't have the nerve to tell you. But grandma says I'll do."

And grandma was right.

Good Motor Cars at Very Low Prices

SECOND-HAND vs. USED CARS

Second-hand Cars are usually sold at a price that will yield a profit. They are in many instances doctored. The best in them has been used up by their former owners.

The Used Cars herein advertised are cars that have given satisfaction. The former owners found that their social needs demanded a larger and finer car. They then purchased a 1913 ALCO.

The business policy of the company and its wide spread reputation for fair dealing is your assurance that these cars are exactly as we represent them. The American Locomotive Company always moves used cars quickly, therefore we have placed on each car a price that is without profit and in each case is extremely low, considering the condition of the car and its real value.

RUSHFORD MINN

Mr. Joe Plonty, the local creamery man, who, with his family, has been on a visit of several weeks' duration with relatives at Binghamton, N. Y., is once more at home, looking much better for his vacation.

Miss Edna Knudson is spending her summer vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Knudson of this city.

Miss Lily Berg has returned from a short visit with relatives in Hayward and commenced her duties as clerk at H. M. Smith's department store last Monday.

The Misses Anderson of Harmony are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Berg of this city.

Mrs. C. K. Onsgard and son Lloyd were visitors at La Crosse Tuesday. Through an error, it was stated in the account of the cornerstone laying, that the various officers here were those who were officeholders in the various lodges. A goodly number were acting as substitutes.

The big seven foot snake of the Texas tree climber variety, which was on exhibition at the snake tent of the Tanner Carnival company, escaped from its cage last night and thus far is still at liberty. Although not of a poisonous species, yet it would not be a very pleasant experience to find it in one's tent bed or in the hammock.

The new Masonic temple, the corner stone of which was laid last Monday, will be ready for occupancy as quickly as the work can be rushed and will be one of the neatest and most beautiful of its kind to be found in a wide territory. The building will be two stories high, 30x60 feet in its dimensions and practically fire proof, being built of Rushford stone and hollow tile.

What might easily have been a serious accident occurred Wednesday evening, when the little four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Steel, intent upon play in the street in front of his father's restaurant, failed to see the auto of Charles Greiser as it came slowly down the main street and, in starting to cross the road, the child was struck by the mud guard and thrown backward. Mr. Greiser at once stopped the machine and did all in his power to aid in getting the child into the restaurant, where a physician examined it and pronounced no serious injury resulting, save a bad fright and the shock of the fall.

The ice cream social and program given by the ladies of the Rushford Presbyterian church last week was a neat sum. The program was carried out without a single missing feature and included a few well chosen remarks by Mr. John McLeod as to the spirit in which the work in finishing the basement was given and that in which it should be received, the speech of thanks given by Rev. Bantly, in behalf of the entire congregation and a number of songs and readings. The occasion was also made the time for a kitchen shower for the basement, a goodly number of very useful articles being donated and many more being promised.

W. A. Parish visited La Crosse friends last week.

George Lord of Houston was in Rushford last Tuesday.

Rev. Father O'Regan was a Fountain caller this week.

Mr. A. S. Kingsford and family of Aurora, Ill., were the guests of Mr. Kingsford's father, G. S. Kingsford of North Rushford, part of this week.

Congressman Sydney Anderson and wife were in our city to attend the cornerstone laying last Monday.

Mrs. V. Casswell and little son are the guests of Spring Valley relatives.

Mrs. H. M. Smith and three children are enjoying an outing of a couple of weeks at Lakeville, Minn.

The Misses Hannah Danielson and Anna Moen of La Crosse are the guests of friends here.

Mrs. Lawrence Farrell of Canton Minn., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Engh of Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Rislove are the proud parents of a sturdy little son, which the "stork express" delivered at their home last Wednesday night. The G. G. Grossfield home has as a guest Miss Minnie Lilleborg of Cummings, N. D., a niece of Mrs. Grossfield's.

Miss Alma Reishus, who has been the guest of her many friends in and around this city, has returned to her home at Nome, N. O.

Mrs. D. J. Shirven and sister Hattie Bowman, are in Winona for a short visit with relatives.

Louis Torgerson is in Albert Lea this week attending a buttermakers' convention.

Messrs. E. O. Lougen, Oscar Lougan, Ole Findring and Halvor Hanson, all of Houston, were recent business visitors here.

Mr. and Mrs. Seabolt of La Crosse are the guests of their relatives here.

Mrs. H. W. Eldred has just returned from a fortnight's visit with her daughter, Mrs. Ed Hallihan of Baraboo, Wis.

Miss Marion Abrahamson has had as a guest her cousin, Amy Abrahamson of Houston.

Mrs. M. B. Gullickson of Peterson has been down as a Sunday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gunderson of Mill street.

Mrs. Vance of Houston has been spending a few days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Abe Abrahamson of Stevens avenue.

Miss Caroline Foss is taking a vacation at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Bagley of Slim Butte, S. D. Mrs. Bagley was formerly Miss Olga Foss of this city.

Miss Jennie Larson, one of the efficient "hello" girls at central, has been out at Hayward, Mapleton and Bingham Lake, to visit relatives.

Mrs. Florence Dubbs, for the past three years chief cook at the Farmers' restaurant, has now severed her connection with that place. Miss Sophia Chilson is taking her place for the present.

Doctors' Opinions About POSTUM

Are best expressed in their own words

Writing under date of May 13, 1913, one physician says:

"From past experience I have become a strong friend of Postum. I am now advising its use over that of coffee altogether, and find that most of those who give Postum a trial become users of it.

"It is however sometimes very hard or impossible to get folks to purchase something when they don't know anything about it, and don't want to throw away money on a chance of liking it."

"Now, it occurs to me these people are not to be criticized for such feelings, but at the same time I am sure many of them would become friends of Postum if they could but have a sample of it placed in their hands.

"If you think this is a good suggestion, and will send me samples from time to time, I will see that they are placed among my patients where they will do the most good, for I believe it is to their interest to drink Postum rather than coffee. Postum is used in our home, but we buy it of our grocer, and we expect to keep right on doing so."

Thousands of coffee drinkers are victims of headache, nervousness, biliousness, heart trouble and indigestion, without knowing the cause.

More and more, physicians are naming coffee as a common cause of these ills. Not every physician, however, finds time to send a sample following his prescription of

The Clever Crabber and the Giant Crab.

THEY were going to the seashore some day with grandpa, and Jack and Evelyn could talk of nothing else for a week ahead. Grandpa and a friend were going crabbing. The friend lived at the seashore and owned a boat.

"Be careful the crabs don't catch you," daddy warned.

"Why, we are a heap bigger than they are," Jack said.

"Crabs don't catch people," Evelyn added.

"Well, some crabs are most large enough to catch folks. I once knew a man who was very fond of crabbing. He had crabbed every since he was a very small boy.

"When he had spare time and wished to amuse himself he would go crabbing. So it was quite what might be expected that when he went to Japan on business one of the first things he should ask about was the crabbing.

"The little brown fishermen shook their heads. They did not go crabbing for fun. My friend did not have much of an opinion of the Japanese after this. 'I'll hire a boat some day and go out and get some crabs,' he said.

"He took the boat and went out. He fished with a net known as a seine, and it was a good thing he did.

"After the boat reached what he thought might be a good place over went the net.

"It seemed as if this crab must have been prowling around under the water waiting to hop into that net so soon did he catch it.

"When he felt the net grow heavy the man dragged it up. As it reached the top of the water he drew it over into the boat, but not without some trouble. When he saw what he had caught he almost fainted.

"The crab was a huge fellow and was struggling to get out of the net. He looked so fiercely at his captor that my friend just took the net and dumped it overboard. Then he made for shore as fast as he could.

"He had lost his net, and when the old Japanese fisherman from whom he had rented both boat and net asked for his seine he was ashamed to tell him. He had been so frightened that he had thrown it overboard with the crab he had gone to catch.

"This gentleman lived in Japan to learn about the giant crab. It can deal hard blows with its big claws. The Japanese fishermen are very careful when they go out to catch it, for a crab can give them a painful wound if it gets a chance.

"In the American Museum of Natural History in New York there is a crab which is twelve feet long, and crabs have been seen which are sixteen or eighteen feet across. These, I am sure, would not be nice for small boys and girls to meet on the seashore when the crab was in a bad humor."

THE SCHOOLS OF THE FUTURE

"The New Basis of Education," an article in the Journal of Education, gives a suggestive outline of the adjustments which school training must make to the changing needs of the time. Emphasis is placed on the change in our industrial system and the change in our educational standards which this makes necessary.

Dimly we realize that something is wrong. Children who are destined for the mill and the foundry are treated as though they were going to college. Boys who will be mechanics and girls who will be housewives are tossed into the hopper with those destined to be lawyers or doctors. Manual training is an attempted answer to the problem of the day—the problem of training children for the life they are to lead. It, however, is but half an answer.

The whole answer will be given only when we rear and support great industrial and technical schools as Germany has for the continuing education of those who have had to leave the school for the shop. We will not be gripping the problem at its base until we provide free education along special lines for the countless men and women who cannot provide a decent living for themselves for the simple reason that they are not trained to do any particular thing super-latively well.

Just now there is much talk of providing a minimum wage. There is no doubt of the intrinsic merit of the principle. But what of those who cannot earn even the minimum? No law can compel employers to hire the inefficient.

When minimum wage laws become general and thousands as a result are out of work society will wake up to the fact that inefficiency is everybody's business. For the greater part of the inefficiency which condemns so many to poverty society is directly to blame. It has not learned the vital importance to itself of bringing out and developing the last ounce of efficiency in every man, woman and child.

Never will we have equality of reward for the various kinds of labor.
Work that requires wide information, deep knowledge, expeditious handling, clear judgment and a high degree of personal initiative always will be paid more than work which is routine in its nature. What we can have, however, is equality of opportunity for all kinds of work. We can by free and easily accessible educational facilities open the door of hope to the masses of brainy men and women confined in the dungeon of what seems to be their fate. We can give likely boys and girls the kind of training that will fit them best for the particular work they choose to do. We can make mistakes in the choice of a vocation less disastrous to earning capacity by providing schools where adults who have made such blunders can educate themselves out of work for which they are not fitted.

Most successful men lift themselves by their bootstraps from the abyss of adverse circumstances. In the struggle to excel many potentially capable of a bigger place than our hodge-podge system awards them fail. President Jefferson once proposed a method for the discovery of geniuses in Virginia. What we need is an educational method for the encouragement and development of geniuses everywhere.

It is no accident that most of our great writers, our great artists, our great musicians come from the ranks of the common people. Through the common people run those deep currents of thought and feeling which makes great writers, great artists and great musicians. From the lowly, the humble and the obscure must come the leaders of tomorrow. That is why a system of education which neglects these classes at the expense of the so-called upper stratum is fundamentally wrong, fundamentally unjust and fundamentally foolish from an economic point of view.

In this world there is enough for everybody. The trouble is that we do not equip everybody for the job of getting their share. Some day when we do give everybody just as much equipment as they can handle we will take the fractional minority that remains—the hopelessly inefficient—and keep them in confinement as today we keep lunatics. Before any such penalty will be meted out, however, we will give all those suspected of inefficiency the benefit of a sentence to the nearest school.

EXPOSES THE "JOKER" TARIFF COMMISSION

"Six—That the National Association of Manufacturers was solely responsible for the creation of the tariff commission during the Taft administration, the object of the association being to forestall revision of the then existing tariff."

The above is one of the charges made by Colonel Mulhall in his lobby disclosures affecting the operations of the N. A. of M. It is probably the most sinister of the accusations. Bribery, blacklisting and conspiracy to defame are evil instrumentalities, and the use of undue influence and insidious pandering to the private interests of legislators are foul means within the reach of petty and private interests, but the stacking of a great government bureau would be absolutely astounding did we not recall that, in the past, congress, cabinets and even the presidency were so stacked.

Readers of ordinary memory will well remember La Follette's attack upon the Taft tariff commission.
Himself the first advocate of an untrammelled tariff commission of ample powers manned with disinterested experts, the Wisconsin senator infeighed against the Taft commission as a joker commission of insufficient authority and knowledge and unsatisfactory personnel. The senator said bluntly that it was framed, not to afford fair and scientific tariff revision, but to prevent it, and we recall the facetious remarks of its chairman indicating bad faith and the almost immediate resignation, in defense of his reputation, of the one expert in the employ of the commission who evinced a disposition to get the real facts and act upon them.

How thoroughly does the Mulhall exposure vindicate Senator La Fol-lette's attack upon the commission?
Surely, he "called the turn."

San Francisco has at last done away with its horse cars, but it seems as though one of them should be preserved for exhibition at the Panama fair as a relic of antiquity.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

An Old-Fashioned Lady
She never threw a high-power bomb.
She never tossed a brick or rock, She never made a corner speech, But she knew how to darn a sock.

She never went upon a hike, No government did she defy;
She never joined a hunger strike, But she knew how to make a pie.

She never stormed about the polls, Nor joined in suffrage doings wild; She never smashed a plate glass front,
But she knew how to rear a child.

Her kingdom was her little home,
A queen she was, by our consent; She reigned supreme nor cared to room,
Old-fashioned, maybe, but content.

The Temporary Outlet
At the first meal on board the ocean liner Smythe was beginning to feel like casting his bread upon the waters. His friends had told him that when he began to feel that way he should stuff himself. He tackled a cutlet first, but it didn't taste right.
He observed to the waiter: "Waiter, this cutlet isn't very good."
The waiter looked at his whitening face, then replied: "Yes, sir, but for the length of time you'll 'ave hit, sir, hit won't matter, sir."—Lippincott's.

He Had Enough
Young Raymond had been busy all of the afternoon with his little pail and shovel on the beach. Bedtime came, and wearily he stood while his mother undressed him. Then prayers were next in order, and by that time he was, almost in the land of nod.

"Now, be a good boy, dear, and say your prayers. Thank God for all His goodness to you." His head had fallen on her shoulder. "Raymond," she said sternly, as she shook him, "you cannot go to bed until you have thanked God for His blessings; for giving you a nice, comfortable home, and a lovely beach to play on, and a mother to love you. Think of the number of little boys tonight who are hungry and without a home and no nice clothes to wear, and—"

Here Raymond's interest became roused sufficiently to protest sleepily:
"Mother, I think them 't' fellers that ort to do th' prayin'!"

An Untested Product
"Our product is thoroughly tested before leaving the factory. No man can sell stuff today that has not been tested."

"We manage to sell our product without testing it."
"That's odd. What do you sell?"
"Dynamite."

Difference in Pronunciation Mrs. Brown from Boston has a colored cook—from Georgia. The other day Mrs. Brown went into the kitchen, and Liza put in a request:
"Mis' Brown," she said, "won't you please, ma'am git me a calendar?"
"Why, Liza, there's a calendar hanging by the door. You don't want another calendar?"
"Yes'm I does. But I mean a calendar what you presses things through. Dat's de kind of a calendar I wants."

Mrs. Brown had a glimmer.
"Oh, Liza, you mean a colander?"
"Well, it's de same thing," said Liza, patiently. "You uses de broad 'a,' but I doesn't. I just says plain calendar."

Filled With Information George Arliss, the English actor cave the other day; as he took his menp card he looked up pleasantly and quite respectfully at the pretty waitress to remark: "Warm day, isn't it?"

"Yes, it is," she answered stiffly, evidently on her guard because of recent newspaper accounts of working girls' temptations, "and so was yesterday, and my name is Ella, and I know I'm a little peach and have pretty blue eyes, and I've been here quite a while and like the place, and I don't think I'm too nice a girl to be working in a cave; if I did I'd quit my job; and my wages are satisfac-show or dance in town tonight, and if there is I shall not go with you, and I'm from the country, and I'm a respectable girl, and my brother is pounds, and last week he wiped up this floor with a fresh $50 a month

Pruritis a Severe Form of Eczema

A Method of Home Treatment that is Very Effective.

There is probably no other remedy so well known as S. S. S. for the blood, and for this reason it is the one remedy invariably called for in treating pruritis and other skin diseases. But there are many people who do not insist upon having S. S. S. and are easily persuaded to try something else "just as good," so they are told. If your blood is thin; if your skin is irritated with eczema, lupus, tetter, psoriasis, or any other blood humor; if you are troubled with pimples or boils, do not permit yourself to be talked into buying something else, but insist upon S. S. S. It is really a remarkable remedy. It contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutrient. And the medical elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food. These facts are brought out in a highly interesting book on skin diseases, compiled by the medical department of the Swift Specific Co., 184 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is mailed free, together with a special letter of advice, to all who are struggling with a blood disease.

A Polite Child
One of the ladies-in-waiting to the late Queen Victoria had a very bright little daughter about 4 years old, and of whom the queen was very fond.

The queen invited the child to have lunch with her. Of course, the mother was highly pleased, and charged the little girl to be very careful about her table manners and to be very polite to the queen.

The little girl came home in high glee, and her mother asked her all about the luncheon.

"Were you a very polite little girl, and did you remember to do all I told you at the table?" asked the proud mother.

"Oh, yes, I was polite," said the little girl, "but the queen wasn't." "The queen wasn't," said the mother. "What did she do?"

"She took her chicken bone up in her fingers and I just shook my finger at her, like you do at me, and said: 'Piggy, piggy.'"—Ladies'

THE RED BUTTON

Copyright, The Dobbs-Macmillan Company.

"Mrs. LeGrange, you understand, don't you?"—and here her voice became deep and bell-like with her conviction. "Sometimes women know things without having to be told, and I know that Mr. Wade is innocent. I would stake my life and my honor—everything I have—on that. And yet I am perfectly helpless about proving it. He is innocent."

Rosalie did not commit herself here. But eyes and dimples flashed their sympathy. And it was the Inspector who spoke first.

"Well, that's what we're here to settle, and if he didn't do it, the best way out is to tell the truth."
"As if," interpolated Rosalie, "you wasn't going to do that! Now tell the Inspector about this Mr.
Wade."

"He is my friend and attorney," replied Mrs. Hanksa. "He lives in Arden. I have known him ever since I went there. He visited New York three times to attempt some legal settlement with Captain Hanksa.
He wanted me to get a divorce. I wasn't quite ready to do that, even if I could have found grounds. But I was willing to have a legal separation—something which would have rid me of Captain Hanksa and let me go my own way. I authorized Mr. Wade to offer part of my mother's property, if that would do any good. The Captain was living in a boarding-house. I knew his ways well enough to realize that this meant extreme poverty. He refused everything. He told Mr. Wade that as soon as he had arranged something, he didn't say what—he would find me and send me to go with him. I realized that I must get farther from New York. I had a few possessions of Captain Hanksa's. I wanted to return them and close with him forever. Mr. Wade had an idea of making one last appeal; and I asked him if he would deliver those things at the same time. Yesterday mornin' Mr. Wade came down to New York. That's all I know—until I saw the newspapers." She stopped here. Her color faded; her hands fell apart with a gesture of despair.

"And I brought her straight to you," said Betsy-Barbara with a triumphant air, as though her extraordinary cunning had settled the case for all time.

Now the Inspector took up the examination again, for Rosalie sat musing, her eyes on Constance Hanksa.

"What were the things you sent?" he asked.

"Let me see—what were they?
Betsy-Barbara, you helped pack them. An old miniature of the Captain."

"And some family photographs," Betsy-Barbara put in briskly.
"And an old mahogany shaving-mirror which had belonged to his father."

"And a Mexican hat-band and two knives and an Irish blackthorn stick and a silver cigarette case."

A stethoscope upon Inspector McGee's pulse would have jumped as high as Betsy-Barbara pronounced the word "knives." But his down-turned face betrayed no emotion. He checked his interruption, in fact, through two more items, and when he returned to the subject he worked backward like a good attorney, concealing his pertinent question in a fog of impertinent ones.

"What kind of a cigarette case?"
"Chased silver and turquoises—a Russian design."

"What was the stick like?"
"Very heavy, and dark brown as I remember. And I think the fer-rule was loose."

Here Rosalie, sitting impassive, quite out of the conversation, saw the corners of the Inspector's mouth twitch. She sat holding herself very tight, lest she betray the psychological moment.

"And the knives?" said the Inspector.

"Let me see—one was a little dagger that he used for a paper-knife and the other was a Malay kris with a long, sharp, wavy blade.
He got it in the Philippines."

"Yes!" exclaimed the Inspector.
And then with the sudden brutality which was a part of his Third Degree method, "and it was with that knife Lawrence Wade stabbed your husband."

Inspector McGee might have thrown that very knife instead of his words, so sudden was the effect upon Constance Hanksa. The color left her face. Her eyes grew big and wild. She flashed to her feet, trembling violently.

"Oh, no!" she pleaded. "Oh, no!
Oh, that will hurt him so! He could not have used it—some one used it after he left—Lawrence Wade could not more have stabbed an unarmed man—"

She stopped, wrestled herself back to some semblance of composure. "Don't you understand he was a gentleman?" She turned from McGee's triumphant face to Rosalie's softened face.

"Why, Mrs. LeGrange, gentlemen don't do such things. He was an athlete—he played every game honorably—do you think he would have put me in such a position, even if he thought of nothing else—he would have had to break every instinct—he—he—"

"Look here, Mrs. Hanksa," said Inspector McGee, pouncing upon his advantage as experience had taught him to do, "there was what you call an affair between you and this Mr.
Wade, wasn't there?"

Here Rosalie swung in again.
"Inspector," she said, "if you go that way, I'll advise this young woman to get a real lawyer before she talks to you any more. Now, my dear, you just answer what you please."

"Well, I should say so!" put in Betsy-Barbara. "Constance, why don't you leave this place at once?
You didn't come here to be in-sulted."

But Constance was mistress of herself again.

"All this will come out in the trial, Betsy-Barbara. I might as well tell everything now. When he put himself in this position he was trying to help me. There was no affair, as you call it. But when he first met me he thought I was a widow. And before he knew my circumstances, he proposed marriage.
He never spoke of it after I told him. He was a gentleman. He only tried to serve me as a gentleman would under the circumstances."

"Has it struck you," asked the Inspector, "that this might be used as a motive?"

"This is perfectly dreadful!" cried Betsy-Barbara. "Constance, you shall not stay here another minute. You come with me to a lawyer!"

"That's right," said Rosalie Le Grange shortly, "Inspector McGee,

FOREMAN KILLED NEAR DE SOTO

Ole Arntson Hit by Night Train When Returning Home on Speeder

NO ONE SAW THE ACCIDENT

Engineer Says He Watched Track and Denies Seeing Speeder or Victim

Ole Arntson, 43 years of age, was instantly killed at about 4 o'clock on Sunday morning on the Burlington railroad two miles north of DeSoto, Wis., by a passenger train. Mr. Arntson was employed as night foreman on the second night shift of a steam dredge occupied in the double tracking between DeSoto and Victory. He was returning to his home in DeSoto on a gasoline speeder when he was struck. According to reports received by officials of the Burlington here, Arntson was killed by passenger train No. 50 south bound, although Engineer Alfred Foster who was at the throttle of the engine denies that his train killed the man. At 5:30 Sunday morning a party of men driving from DeSoto to Victory in a wagon, found a body lying across the road which runs parallel with the railroad track. The body was not mutilated except for a crushed skull. He had been thrown several feet from the railroad track to the road and is thought to have been instantly killed. No one witnessed the accident. The speeder on which Mr. Arntson was returning to his home, was found near the body, totally destroyed.

When Engineer Foster stopped his train at Ferryville depot the operator notified him that he had received a message that a man had been found dead near the right of way two miles from DeSoto. In the Ferryville operator's report of the accident passenger train No. 50 was recorded as the train that struck Arntson. According to Engineer Foster he had his eye on the rail over every foot of the track between the two stations, and he says that he saw nothing on the track. He said this morning that it would have been impossible for his engine to have struck anything that he would not have seen, and if the engine had struck a heavy object as the gasoline speeder the fireman would have felt the slight jar. The body was found at mile post No. 272. Engineer Foster says he passed another train which was on a side track just prior to his passing the mile post at which the tragedy occurred. There is a possibility of this train striking the speeder.

The men who found the body took it to DeSoto where Mr. Arntson's wife was notified. She was nearly prostrated at the news of the death. An inquest will probably be held over the body at DeSoto.

OFFERS CRITICISM; JOB IS TAKEN AWAY

Clayton Herrington.

Judge Clayton Herrington is the San Francisco man connected with the U. S. department of justice who dared to criticize Attorney General McReynolds for ordering a postponement of the Diggs-Caminetti white slave cases in California. For this he was "suspended from duty without pay." Herrington now says that his criticism was justified, and that Attorney General McReynolds admits it by ordering a speedy trial of the cases.

WOULD SAVE HER POLLY FROM BAR

ALTON, Ill., July 7.—Whether a saloon is a proper home for a respectable parrot will be determined by Justice Gorman when he rules on Mrs. Geneva Little Page's application for a writ of replevin to obtain possession of her "polly."

A train porter stole the bird while she was enroute from Kansas City to Alton, according to Mrs. Page, and sold it to a saloonist.

"Polly never swore in her life and I can't bear the thought of that sweet bird learning to curse," wrote Mrs. Little Page.

U. S. EMPLOYE IS FINED.

James Kane, an employe on a government boat, arrested Friday on a charge of disorderly conduct, was fined $7.50 by Judge Edward Cronan in police court today and allowed to go so that he could earn the money to pay his fine. Judge Cronan was lenient in his judgment because of the belief that the time Kane had spent in jail before being arraigned in court was part of his punishment.

His Names

"Harry Thaw sees a good many amusing things in his retreat," said "Pittsburg man." He recounts some of these things in his really well written letters home.

He told me in a recent letter about a visitor to Matteawan who asked an inmate his name.

"My name," the inmate answered proudly, "is Andy Carnegie."

"Is that so?" said the visitor.

"Why, the last time I was here your name was Theodore Roosevelt."

"But that," said the inmate, "was by my first wife."

WOOD NYMPHS THAT WOULD HAVE TICKLED GREEK POET DISCOVERED AT SHARON, MASS.

SHARON, Mass., July 7.—The ancient Greek and Latin poets sang with much feeling of the nymphs who inhabited the woods and mountains and occasionally showed themselves to mere mortals, to the great delectation of the latter.

The nymphs of old may have been some nymphs, but they have nothing whatever on those of the modern day, some of whom are taking lessons in the art of rhythmic expression in a local summer school organized for the purpose. The school is taught by Mrs. Florence Fleming.

The revival of tales of mythology has taken a strong hold on the ladies and in the woods about Sharon one should not be surprised if perchance Diana or Daphne are seen running about in all the summer drapery of the ancient mythological people.

Colors Disappear Suddenly from Latest Fashions for Black and White

BY MARGARET MASON.
(Written for the United Press.)
She always dressed in black, Though it wasn't from a lack Of a husband or of other garments rare.
But being a brunette,
She looked a silhouette, Till she stepped into a taxi and turned fair.

NEW YORK, July 7.—"Mrs. Black is back!" Rose Madder, Pearl Grey, Olive Green and all the other hufel ladies will have to take a back seat after their prismatic color riot of the spring and early summer. All black gowns and hats have come into or rather onto their own again. It is true a touch of white around the decided décolleté corsage livens most of them up as if with a high light. It tends to soften the severe contrast of the plain black against the skin. Soft charmeuse and filmy crepe are the favorite materials for the graceful draped black gowns, but tulle is smart for the little touter suits and frocks.

A lovely crepe meteor of lustrous black has a loose blouse waist cut very low and V shaped as to neck. A ruff of white tulle outlines the cut-out and rears its airy fluttering stiffly around the back of the neck a la Catherine de Medici. The bodice is dropped well down off the shoulders and a graceful full sleeve of the white net is set on the low shoulder line. A wide black sash girdles the gown and is fashioned in the back like a Japanese obi. The skirt draped up on both sides with the ubiquitous slits reveals a generous glimpse of the taupe silk hose and high heeled patent kid colonial pumps buckled in cut jet. The taupe stockings by the way are a pleasing find of the moment. They have the effect of being decidedly diaphanous stockings of black silk, the taupe shade stimulating a degree of sheerness quite impossible for a fast black stocking to attain.

The transparent sleeve is another innovation gaining widespread popularity these fervid days. They are of chiffon or net and found in all every sort of gown. So easily are they seen through that you can't have anything up your sleeve any more.
Black chiffon sleeves in an ebony charmeuse creation are especially lovely. With a Chantilly lace fichu over white chiffon draping the low neck of this gown and a huge flat hat of black chip veiled in the inevitable net the whole dusky effect is most artistic. The net manufacturers are certainly netting enormous profits this season.

Black and white striped costumes strikingly zebraesque in motif are running the all black costumes a close second. It is merely a question of running at that whether the zebra frocks are fit for fat and fair females or smart and suitable for slender sylphs. Running up and down these striped gowns are guaranteed to reduce the portly person at least a pound a stripe while draped horizontally around a bean pole figure it immediately assumes the proportions of a pudge.

LAWS IN EFFECT
DES MOINES, July 7.—Over 300 new laws passed by the Iowa legislature last winter went into effect July 4. While both the woman suffrage amendment to the constitution and the initiative and referendum law were passed, they will have to go through the next legislature to be effective.
Among the important bills passed are the following: The law cutting three hours from the schedule of saloons; saloons must now close at 9 p. m., and not open before 7 a. m.
All cities of Iowa are given the right to choose a commission form of government if they so desire. Two million dollars was appropriated to improve the park about the capitol building. Widows' pensions were created and women factory inspectors are provided for in the cities and manufacturing towns.

Well, the Sound Was There.

"Weak and sinful though we be." On articulation of this line and on investigating found that nearly half the class had been rendering it, "We can sing, full though we be."

The dedication services of the Oak Grove Mausoleum and Chapel were held yesterday afternoon in Oak Grove cemetery in a large space near the mausoleum. An ideal temperature and a clear sky drew an attendance that was estimated to be over one thousand, many being compelled to stand outside of the large enclosure of chairs. The seats were arranged in amphitheater style, affording the audience an opportunity to hear every word that was spoken by those giving the addresses.

At the close of the services, President J. L. Rose of the People's Mausoleum company made a short address. In it he thanked the Oak Grove Cemetery association and the trustees of the cemetery and the citizens of La Crosse for what he called their progressive attitude toward the promoters of the building project. Mr. Rose told of the large amount of building material that had to be procured. "Seven thousand, two hundred and seventy tons of steel was used in skeleton work, seven car loads of marble was used in the interior work and fifteen cars of rough stone was required for the exterior of the structure," said Mr.
Rose.

Following the invocation by Rev.
Henry Faville, Rev. John H. Klaus read a part of the scripture from the book of Genesis. Musical numbers were offered by Mrs. Norbeck and Mrs. Homer Cotton.

Describes Ancient Tombs

Rev. Charles Clark McKinney of Ohio, made the dedicatory address.
He led his large audience back through the ages to the time of early bible characters, citing their manner of caring for their dead. Rev.
McKinney minutely described some of their old tombs, cut out from the solid rock. He laid stress on the fact that the old Hebrews, the Egyptians and the people of India cared more for their dead than do the people of the present generation.

"The generations that are to come after you will bless you for the thoughtfulness you are showing in the preparation of a last resting place for your dead. This is but the beginning of larger things, but the beginning of a satisfaction that your children and your children's children will approve of. The caring for the dead is a thing that is reverential," were a few of Rev. McKinney's remarks. He spoke of the sentiment that the peoples of the ages have had in laying away their loved ones, and he said that the room of the man who had no sentimentality in caring for the body that once contained the spirit of God was worth more to the world than the man himself.

In commenting on some of the great mausoleums of the world Rev.
McKinney mentioned the beauty and the area of the "Tomb of the Judges" outside of Jerusalem. The "Tomb of the Judges" is built similarly to the Oak Grove Mausoleum, and contains room for the bodies in aisles that are laid on the same plan. Rev.
McKinney said that as the race grows and gains more in culture they would have better resting places for their dead. He spoke of the great resting places of great men of the world in this generation and the past few generations showing how carefully they were kept and watched, that no decay could reach them.

In closing his address Rev. McKinney said that the building of the mausoleum in Oak Grove cemetery afforded the ordinary person a privilege that only kings and princes could indulge in in the past.

Faville Compliments Company
Rev. Henry Faville spoke in complimentary terms of the Mausoleum company. He cited the project that was started some years ago for the building of a crematory. He said that he was glad that the project had failed as he believed that to burn the bodies of loved ones was an unchristian and pagan idea.

"The problem of the caring for the dead is solved to the satisfaction of everyone in the mausoleum building." He said that those who first thought of the project were doing a devout service to the people of La Crosse.

Following the out door services Rev. W. A. Billings offered the dedicatory prayer in the mausoleum chapel. President J. S. Medary of the Oak Grove cemetery association then made a few remarks as to the contents of the sealed box that was placed in the pulpit of the chapel to be opened a thousand years hence.
The box contained the following: List of the mayors of the city of La Crosse; list of the city officers and aldermen, 1913-1914; a night scene of the river front; statistics of the city of La Crosse including the La Crosse principal industries; list of officers and trustees of Oak Grove cemetery, and by laws of the Cemetery association; reports of the board of trade of the city of La Crosse for 1909 to 1912; copies of the La Crosse Tribune, La Crosse Leader-Press, La Crosse Volksfreund, La Crosse Abend Stern, and a copy of the La Crosse Chronicle of July 5; a statement of the officers of the People's Mausoleum company and engineer in charge of the construction of the building.

500 ENROLLED IN EXTENSION SCHOOL

Young Men and Women of La Crosse Take Advantage of Opportunity Offered by "U"

100 TRADES IN CURRICULUM

Wide Range of Professional Subjects Offered; Enrollment Expected to Increase Next Year

The total number of registrations in the department of correspondence study of the La Crosse division of the University Extension which is supplemented by class instruction as well as by individual instruction, reached 505 during the past year. Of this number about seventy-five per cent are residents of the city of La Crosse.

These facts show that this field of education is furnishing an outlet for the ambitions of a great number of the young men and women of this city, as well as in the surrounding country. It is anticipated that this enrollment will grow from year to year as people become acquainted with the excellent work that can be done by the combination of correspondence-study and individual or class-group work. Too, the fact that Minnesota will organize a university extension college similar to Wisconsin's plan this fall, will have a stimulating effect upon the bolder boys and girls, especially in this section of the state.

100 Different Trades.—At the present time the university through its extension division is offering instruction in 100 different trades and vocations, and this number will be increased by fall so that there will be practically no trade that a young man wishes to take up in which the extension cannot assist him.

In addition to the many trade subjects that are now being offered, a wide range of professional courses have been prepared. A greater number of teachers, doctors, lawyers, business men and housewives, are enrolling for courses each year. People in general are beginning to appreciate more fully the importance of keeping abreast of educational thought. The added happiness and success that come by a better understanding of the economic and social changes that are taking place daily, fully compensate a person for the time spent on an extension course. Only recently several registrations have been received in our courses in ethics, political science, sociology, commerce, home economics, as well as in French and Spanish, which show the general trend of society.

In the department of debating and public discussion 50 package libraries, varying from one to fifty articles bearing on the subjects under discussion, have come into the district; and 217 bulletins dealing with certain phases of life have been distributed.

Additional Service Next Year.—In the department of general information and welfare the questions answered and the problems settled are too numerous and varied to enumerate. Next year this department will be prepared to give additional service through its new bureau of public health and sanitation, which has just been established.

In the department of instruction by lectures 28 lectures and entertainment courses, varying from one to six numbers, were given in the district this year; and so far 49 have been arranged for next year.

SHARPSHOOTERS TO ATTEND TOURNAY

Dr. E. A. Gatterdam, John Rusche, Theodore Kienahs, Henry Krensch, Sol Burdick and John Hafner have been chosen as the team to represent the La Crosse Sharpshooters' club at the golden jubilee and ninth biennial tournament of the North American Schutzen Bund which will be held in St. Louis July 22 to 27. The local experts expect to pull down a fair share of the $5,000 in prizes which have been hung up for the big tournament.

MYSTERY ABOUT DEATH

NEW YORK, July 7.—Mystery surrounds the finding today of the body of a stylishly dressed young woman at the Victoria hotel, a victim of asphyxiation. One end of a rubber tube leading to a gas jet had been found tightly around the woman's head and her face bore several bruises.

The police learned that the woman went to the hotel last night with a man who registered the couple as "John Smith and wife." No city address was given. At about midnight the man left the hotel. The girl's body was found by a chambermaid.

800 AT CAMP DOUGLAS

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 7.—Eight hundred infantry men awoke at reveille today prepared to fire fifty-seven rounds of ammunition on the rifle range before the sounding of taps. The range work began at seven o'clock and was to continue until 5 p. m.

The militiamen who fail to get a chance on the range today will shoot tomorrow.

H. C. PUTNAM DEAD

BROOKFIELD, Wis., July 7.—H. Clay Putnam, 65, a former state senator and well known as a member of the G. A. R. died at his home here at 6 a. m. today. His death was due to a complication of diseases.

DOG RAIDS FIVE CHICKEN COOPS

Canine Chicken Killer on Expedition Last Night Kills More Than Fifty Chickens

That the canine raider who has been alarming chicken owners on the south side of the city for the last six months is still at large was borne in upon the police today, when five chicken raisers called up the station to tell of depredations with disastrous results on their coops last night. More than half a hundred chickens were killed by the canine raider.

The dog killed eight hens and a number of chickens at the coop of J. G. Robb, 1404 West Avenue South; twenty-one birds belonging to Wale Koszlezke, 1429 Farnam street, and eight at the home of S. Bicha, 1516 West Avenue south. There were two other raids reported, with a smaller list of dead in each case.

At Koszlezke's coop the dog made entrance by digging a large hole beneath the fence of the run and forcing his body through.

POOL HALL OWNER FINED BY CRONON

George Tulumes, proprietor of a pool hall at 329 Main street, was fined $27.50 by Judge Cronon this morning, for violating the pool room ordinance. Tulumes was arrested and convicted on the evidence of Val Niedzelski, 17, 1018 Winnebago street, who declared that late Saturday evening he had lost a couple of dollars playing pool with Tulumes, and that the proprietor had thrown him out when an altercation arose over the amount.

SUPPORT SCOTT WILL

LONDON, July 7.—The jury which heard the famous Sackville-Scott will case today returned a verdict declaring that Sir John Murray Scott's will was duly executed; that there was no undue influence or fraud on the part of Lord Lionel Edward Sackville, or Lady Josephine Victoria Sackville. This means that Lady Sackville will receive $3,500,000 bequeathed to her by Scott. The late Sir John Scott, one of the most eccentric as well as one of the wealthiest men in England bequeathed his entire estate to Lady Sackville. Blood relations of Sir John brought suit to break the will. They declared that Lady Sackville used "undue influence."

ACCUSE SOCIALIST OFFICIAL

MILWAUKEE, July 7.—Tax Commissioner Louis A. Arnold, socialist, was found guilty of malfeasance in office and his removal recommended by a majority report of the special aldermanic committee which heard his case, in a report by the council here this afternoon. Alderman A. J. Welsh, socialist member of the committee, will submit a minority report. The committee in its report found Arnold of having removed certain assessors for "political cause;" of having coerced assessors to change their assessments to stock of the Second Ward Savings bank, and of causing false records and entries to be made in the tax records.

FLOCK TO ERIE

ERIE, Pa., July 7.—With the real carnival events of the Perry centennial celebration to be inaugurated tomorrow, thousands continued to flock into Erie today.

ELGIN BUTTER MARKET

ELGIN, Ill., July 7.—Butter was quoted at 26½ cents today, the same price that prevailed last week.

THESE PITCHERS RESPONSIBLE FOR LEAD OF NEW YORK GIANTS

That the New York Giants are again leading in the National league race is due more to the splendid work of the club's pitching staff than to any other factor. Mathewson, Marquard, Wiltse and Tesreau are all going strong. Mathewson leads the quartet with a pitching record of .750.

Seek Publicity

Since the statement of this bureau to which it objected, was published by the progressive papers throughout the state, the waterpower lobby has secured publication of statements that they have repeatedly compromised. Whatever statements they may be able to secure by intimidation, sympathy of interests, personal appeal, misinformation, or other means, neither they nor any other interest will either intimidate or entice this bureau into stating other than what it believes to be the truth, or into silence when it deems it to be its duty to publish the truth.

The waterpower lobby appears here now as representing individual waterpower owners of northern Wisconsin. But back of this lobby, placidly waiting for it to pull the chestnuts from the fire, is the great hydro-electric trust, a Wall street speculative combination whose purpose is the same as the purpose of standard oil, the steel trust, the woolen trust, and the other arms of the great American octopus of monopoly that extorts from the people exorbitant profits on the necessities of life. Herbert Knox Smith, in a report as United States commissioner of corporations, issued in March, 1912, gave figures to show that the hydro-electric trust at that time controlled sixty per cent of the waterpowers of the United States. There are ten groups in the combination, said the commissioner, of which the General Electric company is the controlling concern, controlling 939,000 horsepower developed and 640,000 horsepower undeveloped, a total of 1,579,000 horsepower; the other nine groups of the trust controlling an aggregate of 725,000 horsepower.

Profits Belong to Public

The commissioner said that unless the people conserve their rights the trust will reap millions of dollars of profit belonging to the public. He said that it is the duty of the states to develop the power for public use, or to rent the power sites to electric companies, instead of giving away public property of incalculable value. Shortly before the publication of this report by the United States commissioner of corporations, it came to the knowledge of the writer, who was in Washington, that such a report had been prepared for nearly a year, but that its publication was held up presumably by influences friendly to the hydro-electric trust.

The Wisconsin law of 1911 was calculated to carry out the recommendations of the United States commissioner of corporations, not at that time known to the Wisconsin legislature, however, by the taxing of waterpower franchises. The Wisconsin supreme court declared the law unconstitutional, and by declaring the right of the state to be confined to such part of the water as should be necessary for navigation seemed to declare that the ownership of the power of falling water vested in the riparian owner. The recent decision of the United States supreme court admitted by Moses Hooper of Oshkosh, who was in the case and who is perhaps the leading Wisconsin attorney of the waterpower interests, to enable the state to absolutely declare that all the water is necessary for navigation.

Can the progressives afford, while there is reason to believe that a final adjudication of this question will vest the ultimate ownership in the public, to surrender that right beyond recall to the hydro-electric trust? Are Wisconsin progressives quitters? There has not been the history of the progressive movement in this state, and this bureau does not believe that the line of defense against the encroachments of special interests will be turned at this time by the suavity and pretended conciliatoriness of the waterpower lobby, or by their condemnation of the friends of adequate control, if that shall be their mode of attack.

People Are Awake

The activity of the waterpower lobby in Wisconsin ever since Governor La Follette in 1905, in a special message to the legislature, woke up the people of the state to the peril of special interests seizing upon this natural resource also, before the public realized its value—is familiar to everyone who has been connected with the legislature in that time, and this bureau regrets to say that not always has the activity of this lobby been confined within the limits of the lobby law. This state-

of warning the progressives against confidence in a plausible pretense of compromise, and the director of this bureau stands ready to present legal proof if called upon to do so by legal authority.

The waterpower law of 1911, as presented by the waterpower committee, would not have gone into effect until July 1, 1912. Upon the insistence of a leading waterpower lobbyist that the waterpower men wished to have the question settled and start development at the earliest possible date, the law was enacted to go into effect January 1, 1912, six months earlier. When the constitutionality of this law was being argued in the supreme court, this same lobbyist, as attorney for the waterpower interests, pointed to the shortage of notice given waterpower owners by the law because of the early date at which it was to go into effect as evidence of an animus of unfairness behind the bill. Record of all of the above will be found in the record of that case.

This is but one example of the tactics pursued by the waterpower men in this fight since 1905. There is abundant ground for scanning their every proposal or pretended concession with unusual care and with skepticism where there might otherwise be faith.

Which leadership can progressives in the legislature most safely follow? The water power lobby, or the conservation committee? The desire to develop at the earliest possible date northern Wisconsin by inducing eastern capital into waterpower speculation, or the advice of Brandeis, Bryan, Wilson, La Follette and government experts?

The water power lobby has pretended to sneer at the knowledge of Brandeis of Massachusetts, Wilson of New Jersey, Bryan of Nebraska, government experts in Washington, D. C., of northern Wisconsin condition but these representatives of northern Wisconsin waterpower interests are not provincials if they do not know that the waterpower problem is a national problem and that its fundamentals are the same throughout the nation, with local legal variations only.

Cry is Development

Fifty or sixty years ago, the cry of the west was for development. For that development great bonuses and grants and unusual powers and rights were legislated to railroad speculators, who maintained powerful lobbies and political machines in the states and at Washington. The cry of northern Wisconsin today is for development. The water power lobby insists upon the same bonus principle in so great a measure as can be obtained with the better understanding of these manipulations that has come from the railroad experience of the past. Shall the progressives of this legislature, in their desire for the development of northern Wisconsin, or in any fear of temporary political disadvantage, make likely the shocked statement by their children of the next century that we make now of many of the legislators of the last century, "What boodlers they must have been!"

Water power law is involved and difficult, and the American courts are still at wide variance upon material points. Who will vouch for amendments offered on the floor to the conservation committee's bill? Who that has sufficiently investigated the legal as well as the practical phases of this subject, other than the water power lobby, will say what would be their probable effect? The conservation committee has endeavored to give up no valuable right of the people that the law as it now is may finally be determined to be still theirs, while within this limitation giving the freest possible latitude to the development of this resource, feeling that an error on the side of the people is better than an error on the side of the water power interests. An error in favor of the people can be corrected by subsequent legislation, but an error on the side of the waterpower interests would vest property rights that would become sacred, and the error be forever irremediable. For present gain in development, can the progressives afford to risk bartering the birthright of all

LINDSEY IN ANSWER TWO THEATERS MAKE CHANGES

NOTED JUDGE SAYS MOVEMENT FOR HIS RECALL IS ANOTHER STEP IN FIGHT BY THE BEAST

DENVER, Col., July 7.—That the persons backing the movement for his recall are actuated solely by revenge was the declaration made by Judge Lindsey in a telegraphic statement received today answering the charges of his critics. Judge Lindsey defies his critics and promises to come back to fight the recall movement.

"A mass of lies and misrepresentation," is the way the judge characterizes the charges of his enemies that of "34 cases of assault on young girls brought before him, only four of the accused men were sent to the penitentiary."

Judge Lindsey's telegram denounced his enemies as "the beast," the political gang he wrote about in his "Beast and the Jungle."

demanding Reed.

"I did not."

"Did you say you saw the leaders?"

"Well, I got their position from Mr. Martin."

"When you told Mr. Ledyard that you had looked the situation over here, you told him a falsehood?"

"It was an exaggeration."

"It was a falsehood," retorted Mr. Reed.

"Well, have it your own way."

"Did you see President Taft or anyone close to him while here?"

"I did."

"And your story of his attitude, when you told it, was based on what?"

"On matters told me by Mr. Lamar whom I saw when I went back to New York."

Here Reed took up the Lauterbach connection with Martin and to the evident surprise of the committee Lauterbach said the first time he met Martin was at his house a few days ago when Lamar brought him there.

Reed pressed Lauterbach so hard with a series of questions designed to show just what took place at the conferences between him and Lamar that the witness, completely confused said: "Please let Mr. Lamar tell what he said to me."

"I want you to tell us," thundered Reed. "What explanation this man Lamar made to you of his reasons for impersonating public men."

"He told me it was to help me."

"Can you conceive of any more absurd and ridiculous explanation?" persisted Reed.

"Well, it was absurd and ridiculous."

Lauterbach insisted that he had told Ledyard that he could "cut off" the Steel inquiry without regard to Lamar because of his personal knowledge of steel conditions.

"What I meant," he said, "was that it could have been possible for me to get the Steel people to make concessions which would have made the investigation unnecessary."

Here Senator Walsh confronted Lauterbach with his original story to Ledyard that he had conferred with the democratic leaders and found them opposed to the inquiry. The senator made the witness admit that this statement was false.

"When did you first hear of this investigation of the Steel trust?"

"Lamar brought me the resolution in the winter of 1908."

"What did Lamar say?"

"That the Steel trust was a monopoly and should be investigated."

"What I want to know is what Lamar's motive, as he told it to you, really was."

"I cannot remember."

"For Public Interest"

"Did he tell you that he was acting for the public interest?"

"Yes, he did."

"And you, knowing Lamar's private character believed him?"

"I certainly did."

"And he appealed to you as a friend of the public?"

"I regret to say he did not. My affiliations were chiefly with corporations."

ELECTRIC SERVICE RESTORED.

That the Gas and Electric company service which was considerably impaired by the storm Friday night, has been completely restored, is the announcement today of Thurston Owens, general manager of the company.

BITES GOLF BALL—DIES

MILWAUKEE, July 7.—Radio-grams picked up at the local wireless station today told of the stranding on Crab Island of the lumber barge Peters, late Sunday night.

AIRMEN FALL IN LAKE

DROP FIFTY FEET WHEN PUFFY WIND OVERTURNS FLYING BOAT AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 7.—Aviator Glenn Martin and Chas. H. Day, a passenger plunged fifty feet into Lake Michigan today when their flying boat turned turtle and fell into the water. They swam to the wrecked boat and clung there until rescued by an excursion boat.

Martin was out on the water early testing the bird craft he was to use in the start of the Chicago to Detroit flying boat reliability cruise tomorrow. The wind was strong and puffy, but he ignored the advice of Illinois Aero club members and started the flight. The flying boat was so badly damaged that Martin may not make the start.

CHICAGO CONVICT IS CAUGHT IN THIS CITY

Charles Otto Drake, wanted in Chicago on a charge of breaking his parole from the penitentiary at Joliet, was arrested on the corner of Fourth and Main streets Saturday night by Detective Joseph McGrath and will be taken back to Chicago today. Drake was sentenced to Joliet on a burglary charge and was paroled by State Parole Commissioner C. M. Reid of Illinois. He left Chicago and descriptions were sent to all cities in the vicinity. He was recognized by Detective McGrath and arrested. A deputy sheriff arrived today to take him back to prison.

SEVERAL LEAVE CRUTCHES

MILWAUKEE, July 7.—There were several additions today to the pile of crutches in the chapel of the Carmelite monastery on "Holy Hill," near Hartford, following the annual pilgrimage to the spot Sunday when four hundred persons visited the shrine. The crutches were left by persons said to have been miraculously cured following their trip to the shrine. The monastery at Holy Hill is one of the oldest in the state and was built by the Capuchin monks.

TOBIAS OLSON DIES.

Tobias Olson, Galesville, Wis., age 77, died in a local hospital this morning after an illness of a month. Death resulted from a complication of diseases aided by kidney trouble. Mr. Olson is a retired merchant. He is survived by his wife and one son, Isaac. The body was taken to Galesville on the 12:20 train today, where the funeral services and burial will take place.

AFRICAN MINERS STRIKE

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, July 7.—The strike of gold miners in the Rand district, which has resulted in more than 100 persons being killed or wounded was completely deadlocked today. Following the peace agreement made by the strike leaders and the subsequent repudiation of the pact by the miners, it was feared further rioting and bloodshed would follow.

THREE ARE DROWNED

HAPPINESS.

Do not run after happiness, but seek to do good and you will find that happiness will run after you.

The world will seem a very good place and the world to come a better place still. The beautiful thing about life is that, no matter how lowly our place is, it is in the King's sight. There are a great many things we cannot do, but we must do what we can, especially the little duties.—Margaret Sangster.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, July 7.—The stock market opened quiet and lower.

11 a. m.—The first hour of trading was dull. There was no important liquidation and most of the active stocks dropped off. Southern Pacific sagging with them from 93 1/2 at the opening to 93. The record business done by the B. R. T. during the three days just past was not reflected in the selling and its stock opened unchanged from last week's closing price. The Great Northern statement of May earnings was encouraging but seemed to inspire little interest.

Noon.—The market was dull.

2 p. m.—The stock market became weak this afternoon. Failure to recover from the early morning dullness is in part attributed to the closing of the First-Second National bank of Pittsburgh.

The stock market closed weak.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, July 7.—Wheat broke today under an accumulation of optimistic crop reports over the fourth of July holiday period and touched new low levels for several weeks. July opened at 88 1/2c and September to 89 1/8c at noon. The decline occurred in spite of higher Liverpool cables based on unfavorable crop conditions in France. July lost 1 1/2 cents and September 1 3/8c after opening firm on last Thursday's prices.

Corn and oats followed wheat in the tumble. July corn opened weak and lost 3/4c in the morning session with September indulging in a similar movement.

Oats started only a fraction lower but began a rapid decline with wheat and at the end of the morning prices were 3/4c under the day's opening.

Provisions started sharply higher

NEW SOUTH PITTED AGAINST THE OLD IN FIGHT FOR ALABAMA SENATORSHIP

In the Democratic pre-primary senatorial campaign, now being waged in Alabama, the new South in the person of Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson is pitted against the old South represented by Senator Joseph F. Johnstone, who desires re-election.

Johnstone in ideals, sentiment, views and purposes expresses by word and act the traditions, customs and thought of Civil war times; while Hobson is a man of today, the embodiment of present-day progressive thought.

with a higher hog market. Further advance was checked by the action of the grain pits.

Wheat firmed and advanced 1-4 to 3-8c in the afternoon, but closing prices were down 1 1/8c for July and 5-8c for September.

The firmness in wheat near the close brought 3-8c advances in the corn and oats markets.

Provisions closed a trifle lower than the day's opening.

PORK

Both men and apes have lost the power of moving their external ears, and there are many sounds, such as the squeak of a bat, which are absolutely beyond the compass of the human auditory apparatus. There is one peculiar point about the ears. Of all our features they are those most likely to be exactly similar in size and shape.

Paint and powder have even been known to alter the complexion of a woman's thoughts.

Watching The Scoreboard

Larry Lajoie again filled in fairly well as a substitute in the first game against Chicago, connecting for three hits in three times at bat. He added one to his string in the second game.

Mitchell allowed but one hit in the second game, but gave four passes and filled the bases in the ninth.

Singles by Shotton, Williams and Johnston and a base on balls to Pratt enabled the Browns to win their game from Detroit in the ninth.

The Pirates had no mercy on Cincinnati and took both games of a double header.

Owner Murphy knows just how popular he is with the Cub fans as a result of the protest demonstration staged after the second game of a double header with St. Louis had been forfeited to the Cardinals. Manager Evers was killing time when the umpires interfered.

The cost of experience is never fully realized until one goes to law.

CHICAGOANS HISS
MANAGER EVERS

CLEVELAND, O., July 7.—The Chicago Cubs, speeding toward New York today, expected to be deprived of the services of Manager John Evers by the suspension route before they start the Giant series.

Evers' action and that of his team-mates, in "stalling" in the second game of yesterday's doubleheader at Chicago so that time would be called before the fifth inning and the Cardinals would not win, met with vigorous disapproval on the part of Chicago fans. The crowd hissed the Cub leader and cheered Umpires Eason and Brennan when they forfeited the game to the Cardinals.

DENVER CLUB FOR SALE

DENVER, Col., July 7.—The Denver baseball team is on the market.
Anyone who has sufficient money can purchase the franchise, lease and a club of players. James C. McGill, who for the past two seasons has had a team and is now well on the way to another flag, declares that he will retire at the end of the season if he can find a suitable purchaser.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Chicago, 6-0; St. Louis, 0-9 CHICAGO, July 7.—Pierce shut out the Cardinals 6 to 0 in the first game of yesterday's double bill, allowing but seven widely scattered hits.

The second game was forfeited to the Cardinals 9 to 0 in the fourth by Umpire Eason. Using dilatory tactics was the charge against the Cubs.

Pittsburg, 10-4; Cincinnati, 4-2
CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 7.—The Pirates took both games from the Reds yesterday. Tinker's crew got an early lead in the first game but were overtaken in the third and outdistanced for the rest of the way.

The second game was not so easy for the Pirates, yet they had little trouble in winning, 4 to 2. Scores:

BALLOON RACE CLOSE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 7.—With the balloons taking first and second place in the national elimination contest which started here Friday only a few miles apart, according to the unofficial figures, several days will pass before the Aero club of America announces the winner.

According to unofficial figures, the Goodyear balloon of Akron, Ohio, is winner, covering 647 1-2 miles; Kansas City Post 642 miles and the Kansas City II 638—only nine and one-half miles between first and third.

NEW MARK NOT LEGAL

CHICAGO, July 7.—Sporting authorities were of the opinion today that the new world's record of 188 feet, 7 inches for the sixteen pound hammer throw, set by Matt McGrath of the New York Irish-American Athletic club in yesterday's Gaelic games here, would not stand. Officials of the meet did not use the regulation steel tape in measuring the heave.
The Gotham copper beat the world's record that he himself made by one foot three inches.

CHILDREN BUY HIPPOPOTAMUS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 7.— "Rip" will arrive in Milwaukee tonight and will be greeted by a band and several thousand school children.
He will head a parade to Washington park in which the band, the children and a hundred automobiles are expected to participate. It is not expected that "Rip" will make a speech. He is the new hippopotamus purchased for the Washington park zoo by popular subscription.

RIOT AT BALL GAME

CHICAGO, July 7.—Presentation of "bouquet" of carrots, cabbage leaves and grass, to the star twirler of the Lake Shores an amateur baseball team, by a roofer for the Hamlines, the Lake Shores' deadly rivals, started a riot in Lincoln park that kept the police busy for an hour.

The southpaw twirler of the Lake Shores took the "bouquet" as an insult. He "beamed" the presentation orator with a speedy inshoot and laid him cold.
Five thousand spectators then swarmed on the field and took sides in the battle. The southpaw hurler and the presentation orator "beat it" before the police arrived.

BROOKLYN, July 7.—Mathewson, pitching in his best form, enabled the Giants to defeat Brooklyn on a muddy field Saturday, 3 to 2. Mathewson did not exert himself, except when the bases were full. Then he would tighten up and leave the locals a long distance from the home plate. Score:

New York ..... 000003000—3 5 1 Brooklyn ..... 000000200—2 11 1 Batteries: Mathewson and Meyers; Ragon, Stack, Fisher and Hecken-ger.

Chicago 12; Cincinnati 6

CHICAGO, July 7.—The Cubs defeated the Reds in a slugfest match here Saturday, 12 to 6. Humphreys went all the way for the locals, holding the Tinker crew to eight safeties.
Score: R H E
Cincinnati ..... 000200310—6 9 0 Chicago ..... 00270102X—12 13 2 Batteries: Harter, Johnson, Clarke

Pittsburg Game Called

PITTSBURG, July 7.—The game Saturday between the Pirates and Cardinals was called in the first inning on account of darkness.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Boston 6; Philadelphia 7

BOSTON, July 7.—To Leonard's blow-up in the seventh inning, Bostonians attribute the loss of Saturday's game to the Athletics, 7 to 6, but Speaker's muff in the same inning which was followed by Baker's woe, was responsible for three of the five runs scored in that session. Score: R H E Philadelphia ..... 002000500—7 9 2 Boston ..... 100011300—6 10 4 Batteries: Bush, Bender and Schang; Leonard, Hall and Carrigan.

Detroit 7; St. Louis 5

ST. LOUIS, July 7.—Although St.
Louis got away with three runs in the first inning, Detroit bunched hits in the fourth and sixth inning, driving Weiland from the box. The final score was 7 to 5 in favor of the Tigers. Score: R H E
Detroit ..... 010303000—7 12 1 St. Louis ..... 300200000—5 8 1 Batteries: Hall and Stange; Weiman, Allison and Agnew.

Chicago 5; Cleveland 5

CLEVELAND, July 7.—Clever sailing as storm clouds settled down over the stadium saved the White Sox from defeat Saturday after Cleveland had tied the score in the seventh. As a storm of cyclone fury nearly the ball grounds, Cleveland tied the score and with two on and two out, the pitcher walked Jackson to gain time, while great masses of dust swept over the diamond and it became almost as dark as night. La-joie, blinded by the dust, fled and the game was called, for the rain then came down in torrents. Score:

Chicago ..... 0005000—5 5 2 Cleveland ..... 1102001—5 13 0 Batteries: Scott and Kuhn; Culp, Kahler, Mitchell and O'Neil.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

OF ROAD IS URGED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—A national campaign for government acquisition of the Central Pacific railroad has been launched by the Public Ownership league of San Francisco. Resolutions demanding that the road be taken over were telegraphed to President Wilson and congress.

The league says the dissolution of the Harriman merger furnishes a favorable opportunity to take over the Central Pacific which, running from Ogden to San Francisco, would offer other roads a chance to compete with the Union and Southern Pacific in coast passenger and freight traffic.

to see that the games are started promptly and that the teams engage in continuous play. Seven innings will be played.

The games in the Midget leagues will be played on Tuesday and Friday afternoons, the games to start at prompt 2:30 o'clock.

TEST BIRD BOATS

CHICAGO, July 7.—Aviators in the 900 mile Chicago to Detroit reliability cruise for flying boats tuned up their bird boats today and prepared to start in a ten mile race off Grant park late this afternoon for the $1,000 efficiency trophy offered by the Aero club of Illinois. Glenn Martin dared rough water early in the day and made a short cruise to test his machine.
